New Urbanism: Resilient Communities or American Pompeii's

Each year, through the generosity of Will and Nan Clarkson, the Department of Urban and Regional Planning in the School of Architecture and Planning has the opportunity to bring a scholar of national and international distinction and reputation to the campus for a week's interaction with our faculty and students.

Dr. Berke is Professor in the Department of City and Regional Planning at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is Director of the Center for Sustainable Community Design of the Institute for the Environment, and Adjunct Professor in the Curriculum of Ecology at the University of North Carolina. He is currently a Collaborative Research Scholar of the International Global Change Institute in New Zealand.
